Innovation also Best overall

Paul Titcombe, product manager and part-time garden design student

Paul says: "I'm just about getting over the shock of winning! I wanted my garden to have clean, modern lines, so I looked to contemporary architecture and yachts for inspiration. It'll be fantastic to see my garden recreated at Gardeners' World Live next year – I can't wait."

Louise Anderson says: "It's easy to go over the top with innovation, but this entry was simple and achievable. It was definitely a worthy overall winner."

The Garden Entitled 'A little oasis in a busy world', an innovative feature of the space comes from the parasol in the top left corner which is remotely controlled by a solar panel unit that generates enough electricity to power the water feature, floor lights and the parasol. Welsh slate, a cherry wood seat and soft, textured planting complete the look.
